Rover Brings Old Timey Music to the Front Porch with Rover Banjos!

The new Rover RB-110 and RB-115 banjos from Saga set a new standard for value and offer a choice of two new truly professional banjos to players at any level!

Part of the “Front Porch” series from Rover, the new RB-110 openback and RB-115 resonator banjos both feature the same new wood rim design, in addition to the already famous same slim, fast mahogany neck with an adjustable truss rod, vintage fiddle-shaped peghead with planet-style pegs, and a host of other industry standard features usually found only on the costliest instruments available on the market today. Other details include a genuine Remo head secured by 24 brackets, a nickel-plated brass vintage-style tension hoop and 1930’s style nickel – plated hardware to top it all off.

Now anyone can own a banjo that looks and sounds like the costliest vintage originals at a fraction of the price and will make the learning experience that much more enjoyable.

Rover wood rim banjos...just another superb value from Saga!
