Regal Offers New Line of Professional-Level Contemporary Designed Dobros!

Regal Dobros have a long tradition as being the first instrument maker to successfully develop resonophonic instruments at a time when the entire music industry began to take shape in the modern era. A prime force behind the instruments overall design was the desire to have more volume – making it possible to reach an ever appreciative audience filling concert halls and parlors. Even today, it is clear that traditional music is taking shape in such a way as to demand even more from these original instrument designs and Regal is there to stand up to the challenge.

Introducing the new RD-60 series of Professional Dobros! We have combined all the right traditional features with modern improvements such as a deeper body that tapers toward the neck, the use of the patented “Power Reflex Tone Chamber,” and a Quarterman Cone to give these new instruments all the drive and power necessary to play modern music in any venue.

Select from the following three models: The RD-64 made of Flamed maple with new Bourbon Burst finish, the RD-60 made from flamed mahogany, and the RD-65 made from beautiful American walnut.
