The Tora Bora Boys bring Bluegrass to Shanghai!

Back on the road again after a series of successful shows at the Summer Namm in Nashville, TN this past June, The Tora Bora Boys – Saga Musical Instruments' very own in-house Bluegrass band – is about to return to Shanghai, China for the third time in as many years.

This very important stop the will be in support of the 2008 Music China Fair held this coming October 9 to 12 in Shanghai, China. This internationally focused event is expected to bring thousands of new and existing trade visitors and members of the music-loving community from over 100 countries from around the world.

The Tora Bora Boys have been very successful at using music to help draw attention to not only the great products designed and manufactured by Saga, but also the style of music that has been the inspiration behind everything we do. That style of music is Bluegrass! The sound and energy of this traditional American music has universal appeal and plays a large part in the overall message that Saga is tries to project as a company. In fact, all of the Boys work for Saga in one capacity or another and choose to use only products manufactured by Saga.

So if you are in Shanghai China, during the 2008 music fair, be sure to drop by booth #: Booth # C32 Hall, E3 for good healthy dose of traditional old-time country music...A true taste of Americana!
