

Instrument Kits

Electric Guitars • Electric Bass • Electric Mandolin • A-Model Mandolin • Openback Banjo

Since the very beginning of our company, musical instrument kits have played an important role in helping us define our identity as innovators in the development of quality musical instruments. We have always believed that the instruments people choose have as much to do with their personal expression as the music they play. With Saga kits, you will never again lose a sale, as your customers can now purchase the exact guitar—or other instrument—of their dreams. When you sell a Saga kit, you'll provide them with all the necessities in one attractive box and your customer will then provide the imagination—and elbow grease!

Saga kits accommodate today's most popular music styles, and challenge any musician who is looking to be a little different than all the rest. Our electric guitar and bass kits come in eight of the most popular body shapes and pick-up configurations found on the market today, giving the owner a chance to make his or her own signature model. For those who are into more traditional music, Saga has brought back its original banjo kit in both openback and resonator versions. Plus, our mandolin kits are available in acoustic and solid-body electric versions.
